

While the council was taking action, the Good Government Club of 1920 was being revived in another hall and preparations were being made for the progressive element to conduct a campaign to promote the approval of the changes by the voters of the city Danville.

The council proceeded with some care in order that no slip might

COUNCIL RESURRECTS CITY HOME; NOW CERTAIN

After being given up for "dead" the new city home project was resurrected last night at the called meeting of the city council and was adopted unanimously, the city purchasing agent being authorized to enter into the contract with C. M. Weber so that work may be started without any further delay.

The alternative proposition of the city finance committee that the sum of $20,000 be appropriated for an almshouse and which was defeated at last Monday's meeting was accepted by the council, Councilman Georgegan moving reconsideration of the matter and acceptance of the proposal. The new city home will come possible largely as a result of the work done since last Monday by Rev. Malcolm S. Taylor, chairman of the city home commission, who has been in conference with the contractor and who, by making cuts in the plans here and there, finds that for slightly less than $20,000 the brick structure can be erected with plumbing, electric lights, water, heating and a sewage disposal system. The building, which will be reared, however, will not be as complete as that called for in the original plans. The two living-rooms at either extremity of the building, one for each race, have been eliminated, the porches are omitted from the plans and the upper story of the main section of the building will be left in an unfinished state to be completed at some later period.

Not a word of objection was raised when the matter was brought, although at first it seemed likely that the council would require reference to the public welfare committee, as the site was not definitely recommended by Rev. Mr. Taylor, however, speaking as a member of the commission, indicated plainly that the site is well settled upon in the minds of the commission as a result of their deliberations, and thus paved the way for a complete settlement.

However, it was deemed advisable that the council go into session informally to debate further the site question. After this had been done, the council came to order again and without a dissenting vote the almshouse project carried, each of the nine members of the council voting for it.

Such money as may be derived from the sale of the present almshouse will revert to the city treasury. Ten thousand dollars is available at once, and the remainder will be payable to the contractor early in the coming fiscal year which starts in May.

GOOD GOVERNMENT CLUB ORGANIZES FOR ACTION

The "Good Government Club" of Danville was re-organized last night at a meeting held in the Chamber of Commerce quarters. A careful count disclosed seventy-nine people in attendance. Everything moved with well calculated precision, celerity and active good spirit, with the exception of one incident, which was precipitated by J. Allan Herman, who proposed that the membership of the organization be restricted to those who were either in favor of the proposed charter changes or who would state that they were possessed of good government. The proposal was rejected by a large majority.

The first objection to this rather remarkable proposal to separate the members of the club came from the first member of committee named, L. L. Kaufman, who rose to inquire if Mr. Herman did not mean that this committee was merely to receive applications for membership and pass them on to the executive committee for action. No definite reply was made to this query.

Then J. D. Rogers asked the pertinent question as to whether there was not a great many good citizens of Danville, just as much interested in good government as Mr. Herman and many present, who were honestly opposed to charter changes. It was Mr. Rogers' belief that membership should not be restricted only to those who favored charter changes or who were willing to be convinced. Mr. Rogers said that Danville needs constructive government, and that if the Good Government Club was going to be of any use to the citizens of Danville, it must be open to all who are interested in good government.

Mr. Rogers said that the club could not be limited to any particular class; that the membership could not be bound to the proposition of supporting charter changes; that the club could not afford to withhold membership from those who do not see this proposition as "we see it."

Judge Walton Brown followed with a common-sense talk along the same lines. He cautioned the present club that the club could not afford to let the public get the impression that it was being dominated by a few people, "who come up here and put through this, that and the other thing that suits their fancy." He stated that it was of no great moment whether the charter changes were made law or not, but that the city would still function. "What this club wants to do," he said, "is to get something done while for the city and not ruin the whole proposition by trying to restrict the membership." He also said that the paramount thing was to see that the city of Danville elected honest, progressive members for its next council, in closing he said, "For heaven's sakes don't let this organization get in the hands of a clique or picked few."

The majority of those present expressed themselves in a thoroughly convincing manner that they were in sympathy with the attitude assumed by Mr. Rogers and Judge Brown and as opposed to Mr. Herman's proposition of restricted membership.

Although it was clearly not the conviction of those present that this proposition of restricted membership should be adopted, the opposite plan was put to a vote, and it was, there was no amendment or new motion.

WHY WOMEN LOOK 60 AT 40

With dark circles under their eyes, sallow complexions, drawn expressions, drooping shoulders, a lagging step, many women of forty have the appearance of women of sixty. In many cases this condition is caused by overwork or neglect of such warning symptoms as headaches, backache, nervousness, displacements and irregularities which indicate ailments neglected would only rely upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to restore them to a normal healthy condition, and the premature signs of age will soon disappear—adv.

THIS SHOWS PLAN OF COAST GUARD TO STOP RUM RUNNERS.

By BOB DORMAN
ON DEPT. OF COMMERCE, OFF. ATLANTIC COAST, Jan. 18.—What improvement can be made in the effort to stop smuggling of liquor and other contraband articles by the coast guard, the first line of defense? Though hard working and as efficient as their equipment permits, the men of the coast guard patrol are sadly handicapped by their lack of proper equipment, and the necessity of other duties.

Their ships are built, not to cope with speedy smugglers, but to enable them to stay at sea for long periods. And never do they know when they must pass up the hunt for smugglers to go to the aid of some lone ashore somewhere in their district. Such a call came to the Seneca.

Thirty-six hours she spent in standing by and endeavoring to haul off the beach of Fire Island a lumber-laden vessel.

Thirty-six hours during which the rum runners held high carnival, with no watch dog to check their activities.

But salvage of human lives comes before the apprehension of law violators.

The coast guard men believe their service could be bettered by adding about six fast launches, mounting a machine gun forward, to each boat of the Seneca's type.

These launches could patrol Rum Row, while the larger boat acts as a supply ship, and furnishes new crews to replace those wearied by a turn of duty.

This would take the advantage of speed away from the smugglers.

It would also render their smuggling more difficult, because they would not be able to recognize a launch as readily as they recognize the present large patrol boats with their distinctive paint and superstructure.

Another plan suggested to nip these rum boats that succeeded in getting away from the Rum Fleet would be to close the inlets through which the rum runners reach the mainland.

This could be done by mounting searchlights at the various coast guard stations on opposite sides of the inlets, so that search beams would light up the water at night.

A fast motor boat mounting a machine gun could lay just inside the path of light, ready to pounce on any boat attempting to run the blockade.

With these additions to the coast guard's equipment, the officers feel that it would be a lucky smuggler indeed, who managed to land his cargo of contraband.

MAIN ST. MEMBERS "GET TOGETHER" IN GENUINE FASHION

One of the largest and most enjoyable affairs of its kind in the history of the church was the social provided for the congregation of Main Street Methodist Church in the church annex last night on the initiative of the Board of Stewards and with the active direction of a special committee which directed the arrangements and the affair itself. It was known as a "get-together," or more properly and specifically, a get-acquainted gathering and was made up of two or three hundred members of the church and Sunday school and others invited to be present. Devoid of speech-making, it was marked by a well selected program of instrumental and vocal music and expression and orchestral numbers by the Westboro group. Richard Peck with his magic violin was one of the contributors, so was Edith Browder with his excellent vocal powers in appropriate songs. An enjoyable musical given by one of the brilliant young ladies of the church, a vocal class at Randolph-Jackson Institute.

Without disparagement of these added attractions, however, it was the extended hand and the cordiality of those present that made this a memorable realization that it had been a privilege to be there. Dr. Smoot and his gracious and charming wife were there, of course, and set the pace in amiability and cordiality. Apparently everybody was in special good humor on this occasion and went away with an enlarged list of acquaintances and an enhanced appreciation of others whom they had nominally known before. The state of the church was very gracious and as good mixers as if they had been candidates for office.

Last but not least, "the eats" were in evidence. Despite old Francis Bacon's familiar assertion that "Reading is to the mind what food is to the body," last night that there were other pleasures than "filling" besides that "extracted from dusty tomes. A salad course ample in quantity and excellent as to quality was served, and the superior to 10 ordinary of lunas. It was not chilled by an ice course.

The entertainment continued from 8 until 10, and in the judgment of many was the most enjoyable in the history of the church. Dr. Smoot has not been accused of putting any thing over on the people. There was applause.

There was also applause at various pauses in the meeting, but none so pronounced as followed the speeches of J. D. Rogers and Judge Brown, taking spirited exception to the proposition of restricted membership as voiced by J. Allan Herman.

As soon as membership blanks had been circulated and collected, with a one-dollar fee for membership fee attached to most of them, those present, by common consent, considered the meeting adjourned and began informally to drift out of the hall or went up to tel groups of two or three to talk. When about half of the men had gone, Chairman Dodson betook himself of the fact that no motion for adjournment had been made. In a loud voice, he suggested that he would entertain such a motion. Some one so moved and there was a second. The question was put and the motion carried by acclamation, and the meeting was brought to an end in good and proper form.

No date was set for another meeting, but it was suggested that a present take membership blanks and make every effort to secure more members.

DR. W. B. SMITH MADE ADDRESS THURSDAY

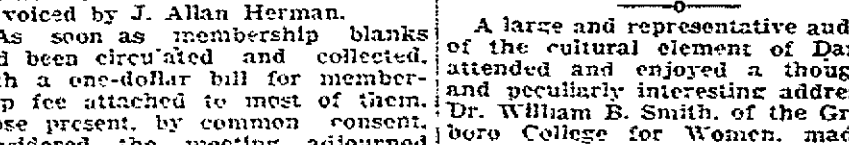

A large and representative audience of the cultural element of Danville attended and enjoyed a thoughtful and peculiarly interesting address by Dr. William B. Smith, of the Greensboro College, North Carolina, at the Mount Vernon Methodist church lecture room yesterday afternoon from 3:45 until about 5 o'clock, under the auspices of the Shakespeare Society. The occasion of the address has been instrumental in securing many attractions of a distinctive literary character to Danville. Many guests were privileged also to hear and enjoy the speaker's presentation of this theme, "The Influence of the Bible on Shakespeare and the English Drama."

Dr. Smith, a student of literature generally and of the Bard of Avon and of the English Bible greatly impressed his audience by the development of his theme and his complete demonstration of how profoundly the St. James version of the Bible had influenced and shaped the work of the world's great dramatist and of other eminent men who contributed to the resplendent literary lustre of the Elizabethan Era. The speaker cited hundreds of quotations, references and allusions to the Bible in the Shakespearean drama conclusively showing the devout study of the new Bible by the dramatist. The address showed intricate familiarity with the Shakespearean plays and a painstaking care and study in weaving together the evidence to sustain his theme brilliantly.

The speaker was happily presented by Superintendent W. C. Griggs, of the Danville schools, himself a fine student and a fluent and graceful speaker. In his introductory address, Mr. Griggs very effectively quoted and paraphrased the prayer of William Penn for the city he founded, and in doing so he paid a handsome tribute of appreciation to this thoughtful Carolinian scholar.

Sacredness of Marriage Bonds

At the mission services last night Father Devory spoke an interested and appreciative audience on the subject of "The Christian Home," dwelling with special emphasis on the sacredness of the marriage bond to which he declared "the home must look for its origin and its security. Marriage creates the home and family, and determines its moral tone and stability. In the last analysis, therefore, the weal or woe of society depends in no small degree on the view which is taken by its members concerning marriage with its duties and responsibilities."

The church teaches that marriage is a sacramental contract. Once entered it can not be dissolved by any human tribunal. Catholics believe that Christ emphatically taught that marriage once contracted can not be undone. His reply to the Pharisees who asked him concerning divorce was: "Have you not read that he who made man from the beginning, made male and female? And he said, for this cause shall a man leave father and mother and cleave to his wife, and they shall be two in one flesh. What, therefore, God hath joined let no man put asunder." (Matt. XIX, 4, 6.)

For twenty centuries the church has opposed divorce and defended the sanctity of the marriage bond in the language of the Evangelists: "What, therefore, God hath joined together let no man put asunder." In support of her position she invokes not only Matthew (V, 32; XIX, 4, 6), but cites in confirmation of this doctrine, Luke XVI, 18; Paul (I Cor. VII, 10-11; Eph. VI, 1-3); and Mark (X, 10-11). Her teaching is that in marriage husband and wife enter a sacramental union so intimate that they are merged in a unity which death alone can sunder. This permanent union is required to attain the end and purpose of marriage which is nothing less than the marvelous vision of cooperating with God in the procreation and education of human beings who are to populate the earth and people heaven. This sacred duty which husband and wife are summoned together to fulfill requires that their union be permanent. Hence the indissolubility of the marriage bond by which they are united.

Southern Bridge Closed Few Days

The Southern Railway Company took preliminary steps yesterday towards the rebuilding of the Dry Bridge which will consume about three days' time and during which the structure will be completely renovated.

City Engineer R. K. Linville announced last night that the bridge will be closed during the day and this will necessitate a detour the truck being crossed some distance above the dry bridge. Traffic will on proceeding South have to turn to the right at Watson street, proceed through the Watson Fitzgerald brick yard in order to reach the grade crossing. This detour will be available however only for eight hours during the day and at six o'clock the coal yard will be closed at which hour the Dry Bridge will be opened for traffic throughout the night.

The pitch of the dry bridge cannot be altered said Mr. Linville and the steep "hump" will not be reduced owing to the fact that the bridge at present gives the minimum clearance to trains passing underneath. The Southern plans to put in new timbers and to renovate the complete structure.

DURHAM-ROXBORO ROAD OPENED UP

The following story of the Durham-Roxboro road reprinted from a Durham paper will be of interest to motorists of this city:

Durham motorists desiring a 60-mile trip will now enjoy the ride to Roxboro and return. The new hard surfaced road has been opened up and there are no detours to make. There is one point in the road, near Hibernia, where the hard surface could not be completed before the cold weather demanded a halt in the work of pouring concrete. However, the old road bed is being used over this stretch which is only a mile in length. The old road bed is in exceptionally good condition and ride almost as smooth as the hard surfaced section of the highway, and may be used through all kinds of weather conditions.

Motorists will find the trip from Durham to Roxboro very pleasant. It passes through one of the most prosperous farming sections of Durham county, in fact, a total of 150 houses between Durham and Roxboro or an average of one home to every 300 yards.

The case will be referred to the juvenile court for action.

COCOANUT OIL MAKES A SPLENDID SHAMPOO

If you want to keep your hair in good condition, be careful what you wash it with.

Many soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much free alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle and is very harmful. Multisulfed coconut oil shampoo (which is pure and entirely greaseless) is much better than anything else you can use for shampooing, as this cannot possibly injure the hair.

Simply moisten your hair with water and rub it in. Two or three teaspoonfuls will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather, and cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. The lather rinses out easily, and removes every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excess oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves it fine and silky, bright, fluffy, wavy, and easy to manage.

You can get Multisulfed coconut oil shampoo at any drug store. It is inexpensive, and a few ounces will last every one in the family for months—adv.

WHAT SOLONS ARE DOING IN THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY

(Associated Press Leased Wire)
RICHMOND, Va., Jan. 18.—The Virginia federation of labor is "much interested" in proposed amendments to the workmen's compensation act now before the general assembly and has opposed to recommendation of the committee of simplification and economy that the department of labor and industrial statistics be consolidated with the industrial commission.

Amendments to the compensation act provide for the extension of medical attention in extreme cases and would reduce the number of employees to which the law applies. Another amendment would increase the minimum and maximum weekly compensation, the former from $10 to $15 and the latter from $25 to $35.

The federation feels that the compensation law has operated to the benefit of both employees and employers. It is a commendable effort of the legislative committee of the organization, who outlined the position of the federation, said.

"We believe that the proposed amendments are fair and equitable to all parties inasmuch as the Virginia law is far better than the average of those in other states in the sections in which changes are sought."

Mr. Coleman said a recent meeting between representatives of the federation and employers on the proposed amendment, however, required that the conference be delayed until a date just before the assembly met, he continued, but the meeting has not been held to date.

Memorial in honor of Virginians who died in the world war will be worked for by American Legion of Virginia during the present session of the assembly, department commander J. J. Wickes Jr. has told legion members in both houses. The proposed memorial would be erected in Richmond and measures "providing for there will be no night" made by the American legion for a memorial, the commander said. "We feel that the subject is too sacred to fight for. The war memorial is not a tribute to the American legion but to Virginia's dead. It is a tribute to the dead by the American legion but by the people of Virginia. Our

GOVERNOR DAVIDSON

(Associated Press Leased Wire)
AUSTIN, Texas, Jan. 18.—Further movement of Mexican troops through Texas is awaited by the acting Gov. T. W. Davidson before he determines his action on the request of the Obregon government for permission to transport troops from Nacozari, Arizona, to Laredo, El Paso, Texas, where they would be re-embarked.

Lieutenant Governor Davidson, acting as state executive in the absence of Governor Pat Neff late yesterday requested the state department at Washington through which Mexican government's request was transmitted to notify him if the matter was considered exceptionally urgent. In such event it is considered probable that Mr. Davidson would reach an immediate decision. Otherwise, the question might be left for Governor Neff to decide upon his return late today or tomorrow.

Although formal protest was addressed to the governor of Texas last night by Reinaldo Esparza Martinez, representative at San Antonio of the de la Huerta revolutionists, and opposition to the proposed troop movement of Mexican troops from Nacozari, Mexico, to Laredo, El Paso, Texas, where they would be re-embarked.

Senator Martinez requested denial of passage "in the name of the Mexican people now in rightful revolt against imposition and Russification of our Mexico by Plutarco Elias Calles and Moscow agents."

Approximately 5,000 troops from the states of Sinaloa and Sonora, including a large number of Yaqui Indians would be available for service in the eastern zones within one week if permission were granted to move them through the United States, according to an El Paso dispatch.

BROUGHT TO LIGHT VANISHED HUSBAND BY WIFE'S DREAM

(By Chicago Tribune Service)
CHICAGO, Jan. 17.—William H. Cook, 41, held, on a charge of burglary today because of a dream which disturbed the sleep of his wife shortly after he disappeared December 31 from their home here.

The dream was fulfilled when detectives escorted Cook and wife Mrs. Cook to Alice McKinglan, 30, here, from Detroit, where they were apprehended.

Mrs. Cook dreamed that her husband had run away and married. The dream lingered in her mind and she decided to investigate. A search of the marriage licenses revealed a license had been issued to Cook and McKinglan. Mrs. Cook then called on the mother of wife No. 2 and posing as a friend, was told that the happy couple was honeymooning in Detroit. This information was given police and detectives today returned with the erring couple.

Mrs. Cook said she would first prosecute her husband for larceny and then seek a divorce.

LONDON, Jan. 18.—Yasukichi Miyazawa, "poison king" who doped the world's war has toppled from his throne.

Instead of converting heroin and cocaine into British golden guineas and Japanese yen, he fell from the throne of the world's war in a cold three years of hard labor in a cold English prison. By the time he comes out, police officers of half a dozen great nations hope they'll have a totally destroyed and swept away his amazing organization for illegal traffic.

Like a huge yellow spider, this crafty Jap set in a luxurious suite of offices in the heart of London and watched the threads he had spun to Hamburg, Switzerland, Marseilles, Japan, China, India and even the western ports of the United States.

For months, every year, Miyazawa sent him of wrong-doing. He was just a jelly, prosperous Jap. Interested in exporting German goods to the Orient, he was well-known in London's little Tokyo and many white men enjoyed his gracious hospitality.

Betrayed.
Last March, however, a fatal thing happened unknown to him. A poor wretch was arrested charged with peddling "snow." A Scotland Yard man found the hope in a hollow heel position in the matter is one of dignified approval.

The Buchanan-Wickham measure to increase the salaries of judges of the supreme court of appeals was recommended today for passage by the finance committee of the Virginia Senate. Approval by the courts of justice committee already had been given on the bill.

In the house the committee on schools and colleges reported out without recommendation the Norris bill to change the names of the state normal schools to "state normal colleges."

This action followed two joint sessions of the house and senate committees on public institutions and education, in which superintendent of public instruction Harris Hart advised against the change and the presidents of the four normal schools said it might change the primary function of the schools.

Mr. Hart took the position the proposed change would not make colleges out of the schools and that it might divorce the normal institutions from their primary purpose of training elementary school teachers for their duties.

In reply to a question asked by S. P. Duke, president of the Harrisonburg normal school, the superintendent said it might be advisable to "create one normal college."

W. C. Locker, president of the state normal school board, spoke briefly, leaving the question to the committee but warning against amendments that might change the primary function of the schools.

Dr. J. P. McConnell, president of the East Radford Normal school, and Dr. Duke made the principle arguments for the schools, asking the position the change would lend added dignity to the institutions and attract more students.

The Senate finance committee also reported out a bill giving state assessors the same claims for state assets of insolvents in regard to estates of decedents.

The committee delayed action on Senator Holt's measure to place a license fee of $10 a year on physicians and set next Tuesday as a date for the hearing. The action on Senator Smith's bill to tax machinery as capital, instead of as an improvement to property, also was delayed until next Friday.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—The House struggled again today with the proposed new rule to enable members by petition to institute proceedings for the discharge of committee members from consideration of legislation, after failing twice yesterday to fix the number of petitioners to be required.

Each of the contenting groups in the rules revision battle—the organization of the public and the combined democratic and republican insurgent forces—was victorious yesterday, the former losing by a vote of 205 to 193 on a proposal by Representative Graham, Republican, Illinois, that the names of at least half the house members be required on such petitions, but succeeding shortly afterwards in defeating an effort to place the number at 100, the second ballot being 235 to 193.

The House then took up the committee's recommendation of 150 signatures around which the fight has centered, in the position of a compromise proposal when the debate was resumed today.

The other amendments to the chamber's rules recommended by the committee, presented yesterday, vigorously contested differences of opinion and the house is expected to dispose of them quickly, having repealed the Underwood rule limiting amendments to tariff and revenue bills at the beginning of the discussion Monday.

"Human Tissues" Fall From Sky During Storm

(Associated Press Leased Wire)
JACKSON, Miss., Jan. 18.—Dr. C. E. Stimpitz, superintendent of the state board of health laboratory, was today making microscopic examination of samples of what appeared to be human tissues that fell from the skies during a rainstorm at D'Lo, Simpson county, 30 miles southeast of here several days ago.

The substance was brought to Dr. Stimpitz by Dr. M. L. Flint of D'Lo, who said the "tissue" fell from the sky during a rainstorm at D'Lo, Simpson county, 30 miles southeast of here several days ago.

Before passing on the nature of the samples Dr. Stimpitz further analyzed and submitted to some federal government laboratory for further analysis.

RAIDERS ARE BOOED
NEW YORK, Jan. 18.—The police headquarters prohibition squad in a series of rapid raids early today descended on a number of cabarets in the white light and found three men. The raiders were booed and hissed by disapproving patrons.

"Mama," said the little boy, who had been sent to dry a towel before the fire. "It is done when it is brown."—Pearson's Weekly (London).

JAILING OF WEALTHY JAP MAY MEAN END OF DOPE RING

LONDON, Jan. 18.—Yasukichi Miyazawa, "poison king" who doped the world's war has toppled from his throne.

Instead of converting heroin and cocaine into British golden guineas and Japanese yen, he fell from the throne of the world's war in a cold three years of hard labor in a cold English prison. By the time he comes out, police officers of half a dozen great nations hope they'll have a totally destroyed and swept away his amazing organization for illegal traffic.

For months, every year, Miyazawa sent him of wrong-doing. He was just a jelly, prosperous Jap. Interested in exporting German goods to the Orient, he was well-known in London's little Tokyo and many white men enjoyed his gracious hospitality.

Betrayed.
Last March, however, a fatal thing happened unknown to him. A poor wretch was arrested charged with peddling "snow." A Scotland Yard man found the hope in a hollow heel of his right shoe. The arrested man went to jail, but not before he had given the detective some important documents. These pointed to the Jap. From that time on Miyazawa was a watched man. Every letter sent to him was examined by the authorities. The documents were photostated and then sent on to "The Master," as he was known to his agents.

From these letters the police learned he got his illegal drug supplies in Germany and Switzerland. They also learned how the drugs were able to reach the attention of French, German, British and Japanese police and customs authorities. Miyazawa sent boatloads of planes, furniture and toys to the Orient. Part of this stock was genuine. In others there were hollow receptacles where the drugs were concealed.

Big Business.
As a result of the upthrust obtained, one load of furniture was examined on a boat in the British harbor of Hongkong, China. Big quantities of morphine and cocaine were found. A bunch of his German agents were arrested. Then before he could take alarm, Miyazawa was nabbed.

When Miyazawa comes out of prison, he will be deported to Japan, where it is likely he will face further prosecutions.

PROPAGANDA IN UNITED STATES TO BE PROBED

(By the Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—A sweeping investigation of general propaganda in the United States will be started Monday by a special senate committee with the peace plan its first subject for study.

Propaganda dealing with the Mellon tax program, the soldiers bonus and other questions is expected to be considered later under the committee's authority "to investigate and report to the Senate what facts and figures are available to the public and to control public opinion and the action of congress upon legislative matters through propaganda or by the use of money, by advertising, or by the control of publicity."

Decision to make up the Bok plan first was made at the suggestion of Senator Reed, Democrat, Missouri, who introduced the resolution under which the inquiry is to be conducted.

Edward W. Bok, of Philadelphia, who offered the $100,000 prize for a peace plan, was one of the speakers at the hearing. Miss Esther Everett Lape, of Philadelphia, one of the committee in charge of the contest, have been selected as the first witnesses to be heard.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—Tax revision proposals of Secretary Mellon and Representative Garner, Democrat, Texas, came into open debate today at the House ways and means committee hearing during the presentation of reports by Garrard Winston, under-secretary of treasury.

Chairman Green declared the treasury's estimate of losses in revenue which would result from proposed cuts in sur-tax rates to a 25 per cent maximum was "too optimistic," contending the loss would amount to $200,000,000 instead of $101,000,000, estimated by the treasury. He added, however, that he was not in favor of such a cut, but a 44 per cent maximum as suggested under the Garner plan.

Arguing for the sur-tax rates suggested in the Mellon plan, Mr. Winston agreed with statements of Representative Miller, Republican, New York, that the reduction would bring capital now evading taxes into business, and ultimately would increase revenues from this source.

CLAIMING U. S. IS NOW DRY, DRY WILL TACKLE WORLD

By JOHN EDWIN NEVIN
(Copyright, 1924, by The Bee)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—With the cheers of the drys still ringing in their ears, congress has in response to assertions that now the United States is dry, the movement will be extended to dry up the rest of the world, leaders of the various anti-prohibition organizations began preparations here today for their conference next week.

The anti-saloon, league and allied organization ended their celebration of the anniversary of prohibition today.

There was but one discordant voice—that of Governor Pinchot of Pennsylvania who declared that prohibition enforcement today is a national disgrace.

The wets, preparing for their meeting, repeated Pinchot's statement, and declared the reason prohibition was not being enforced was that the people did not want it enforced. At headquarters of the association opposed to prohibition, it was stated that at next week's conference facts and figures would be produced to convince the country that the great majority of the inhabitants of the United States are utterly opposed to prohibition as it is at present constituted.

INDUSTRY IN GERMANY IN BAD NEED OF MONEY

By EDGAR ANSEL MOWBRER
(Copyright, 1924, by The Bee.)

BERLIN, Jan. 17.—Unless the committee named to investigate the flight of German capital to foreign countries gets busy soon it will find little to investigate, even supposing such an investigation is possible. The fact that the German industrialists who are losing money at a terrible rate are calling home the "Red" funds.

The industrialists had hoped that their government would make good the loss involved in deliveries to the French. But since December 15, the government has paid nothing, declaring that the industrialists were compensated by the non-payment of taxes.

The huge Ruhr industries now seem to be tottering. Cracks appear everywhere. Two-thirds of the Ruhr workers still are unemployed, and to start them back to work Germany has raised prices without raising wages. Germany itself can buy almost nothing of Ruhr production. Foreign markets are deserted.

It suffices to say that the Ruhr's capacity is about twice what it was before the war and that it was dolled up for production, with no customer in sight.

The second need is huge capital. Hugo Stinnes is reported to have said that German industry needs about 1,200,000,000 gold marks, of which only 300,000,000 marks is available. Therefore, from Switzerland, Denmark and Holland the industrialists are recasting the capital which, in foreign dress has been hitherto such a powerful aid.

The writer is informed that during the last month half of such available capital in Holland has been withdrawn. The great Stinnes has been begging for relatively small sums on the Amsterdam market.

It is natural, therefore, that Stinnes has served notice in polite form that he will not renew the Mieuw agreement when it lapses in April, and extends the olive branch to the French with despairing bravado, saying that they can make big money by operating with him. His news agency recently published a statement purporting to show that because of the high overhead, the Ruhr was being worked at a loss. The facts are that in the Ruhr coal prices are 32 per cent. higher than the English and iron prices are 32 per cent. above the French Lorraine prices.

Stinnes' opinion is that the whole reparations question could easily be solved by the French and German governments agreeing on a definite amount of reparations to be paid in kind and then leaving the working out of all details to French hand German business men. German industrialists would be paid by the German government and the Ruhr industrialists would lose nothing keeping their trusts intact.

The German government has found enough English and Dutch capital for the gold bank on condition that it will be exempted from reparations. The Germans hope that subsequent committee findings as to the capacity of Germany to pay will approve such exemption and that the French will agree to it. They believe that means that the Renten marks will remain at par during negotiations with the French on this point. The industrial crisis, therefore, is postponed until the committee ends its work and publishes the results.

Laborers from Belgium, Spain, Italy, Poland and Czechoslovakia are being imported into France, owing to a lack of help in practically every industry.

However, comes

By JAMES W. DEAN.

NEW YORK, Jan. 18.—"The Miracle" has had its American premiere. It is the biggest theatrical venture ever attempted here. Pages might be written about it, but here are the high lights of the production:

Its predominant feature is beauty of setting and atmosphere. The reaction upon the spectator is that of witnessing a great emotional drama in a cathedral, the worshippers taking part.

It substantiates the claim Europe has made for Max Reinhardt—that he is the world's master of stagecraft.

It reveals Rosamond Pinchoy as a great actress.

It makes a mole hill of the mountain of hubbub raised over the question of whether Lady Diana Manners or Princess Matchabelli should play the Madonna on opening night. The role is less significant than several others.

It establishes Norman-Bel Geddes at the peak of the stage designers. The setting he devised contributes as much to the drama of the spectacle as was given by the author or players.

It will now allow Morris Gest, the producer, to sleep at night. It will bring in a handsome return for the great risk he took.

The play isn't always the thing, as Shakespeare said. "In the Next Room" is probably the most successful mystery play of the current season and its success depends very largely on the illusion created by one of its players, Claude King.

King plays two parts. If this were disclosed to the audience there would be no mystery, so it is necessary for King to change his voice, his height and his entire appearance. The actor does this so well that even hardened Broadwayites are deceived when they are first told one man plays both roles.

William A. Brady plans to re-enter motion picture production. His first film will be based on Robert Keable's novel, "Simon Called Peter." Although Brady owns dramatic rights to this, he has not yet produced it on the stage. Probably fears effect of present cry for stage censorship.

Brady also intends to film "Chains." If he can transfer the subtlety of this play to the screen it will be an excellent picture.

No lengthy account of Leo Carrillo's new play, "Gypsy Jim," is given here because it is fairly entertaining if you happen to see it and if you don't happen to see it you have not missed a great deal. It is no better than a good church sermon on the old subject: "It is more blessed to give than receive."

FATHER UNWILLINGLY CONVICTS OWN SON

By ALEXANDER HERMAN

TRIDENT, N. J., Jan. 18.—The trick of words—they made a father's testimony unwillingly convict his son of murder.

They made a jury sentence him to death, when it wanted to give him a more merciful punishment.

And now Arnold Anderson, 26, sits stoically in his cell in the Death House of the New Jersey State Prison wondering what further trick poorly selected words will play him.

For the Board of Pardon has his case under consideration. His recommendation can save him from death in February. But the young prisoner is not hopeful.

There has been too many a slip for him to trust his thought and the word. Meanwhile his father, a tailor in Brooklyn, N. Y., tries to keep busy at his work. He has become deathly quiet. He no longer speaks much to his workers. He just works on, and on—to keep busy.

His heart is heavy, and his soul is scared. Not only does he have to bear the anguish of knowing that it is his boy who may go to the chair but he has to bear the torments of the thought that his testimony helped convict him.

A Drug Addict at Twelve
At the trial he was asked if his boy had told him that he had shot the victim, with whose murder he had been charged. The father thought that he had been asked if young Anderson had told him that he had told the police that he had done it.

And he answered—"Yes." For he was ready to go on and exonerate the son of his sins. He was ready to tell how his boy had confessed to a crime which he hadn't committed, the conviction of which would have meant eight or more years in Sing Sing. The authorities that time discovered the deceit, however, and saved him.

But this time, in the courtroom in Jersey City, the father never got the chance to explain. His answer had already convinced the jury for young Anderson's record was bad.

According to his father, young Anderson became a drug addict when he was 12 years old. Drug mongers who plied their trade around the boy's children started him on the habit.

"But I found out about this only since the last trial began," his father said sorrowfully.

It was the beginning of a long line of transgressions of the law that culminated in the conviction for shooting Harry C. Moore, a Jersey City real estate operator, who intercepted Anderson while he was leaving Moore's home on Avenue C.

"In 1909," says Will Weiss, who together with George F. Cutler, defended Anderson in his last case, "the boy was sent to a truant school. In 1910 he was in the House of Refuge, for unlawful entry. In 1911, 1912, he was sent to Sing Sing for grand larceny. In 1913-1914, he did another term for burglary."

Comforts Father and Mother
In appearance and bearing Anderson remains one of a dignified professional student. With his pince-nez glasses he looks like a high-brow intellectual.

When the newspapers printed stories about his father's testimony convicting him, he comforted his father and told him that he admired him for living up to his oath.

When the jury found him guilty it did so with a recommendation for mercy.

"The parents say the boy is mentally deficient. They even had a commission inquire into his sanity." But nothing was done with his findings.

BRYAN FACES CRUCIAL TEST IN POLITICAL LIFE

By ROBERT T. SMALL

(Copyright, 1924, by The Bee.)

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Jan. 17.—William Jennings Bryan faces one of the most crucial tests of his long and tempestuous political life in his effort to be named a delegate at large from Florida to the democratic national convention.

At the present moment the chances seem to be all against the great commoner, but as the primaries are held until the first of next June there may be a change of sentiment in his favor. Three times the national standard bearer of his party, Mr. Bryan may be turned down in his adopted State for the comparatively lowly office of national convention delegate.

Mr. Bryan's latest move in announcing that he is for Dr. A. A. Murphy, head of the Florida State University, for president of the United States, has reacted against him rather than in his favor. It has given his political enemies the chance to say Mr. Bryan is "dragging in" the eminent educator as stalking horse and that the commoner still has ambitions which lie in the direction of the White House. When Mr. Bryan first announced some time ago that he had a dark horse up his sleeve, a dry Southern progressive, some persons thought he was going to name Josephus Daniels of North Carolina.

Mr. Bryan's announcement has not been attributed to him in any degree. So Mr. Bryan's announcement to him seems to have been but another of a number of moves which have made the former Nebraskan a bit unpopular with the Florida democrats.

Mr. Murphy is great admired down here in Florida but is realized by his closest friends that nationally he is unknown only among the higher educational circles. Political ambition has not been attributed to him in any degree. So Mr. Bryan's announcement to him seems to have been but another of a number of moves which have made the former Nebraskan a bit unpopular with the Florida democrats.

First of all, there is a belief that Mr. Bryan is grooming himself to contest the seat of Senator Duncan Fletcher, two years from now. This has naturally caused resentment among the Fletcher supporters and Mr. Bryan has not appeared them by including the senator among the Florida democrats he would be glad to support in the event of his nomination.

The democrats down here know full well that no Floridian has a chance to be named for the presidency at this time, but they regard Mr. Bryan's enthusiasm for a Floridian as a piece of political buffoonery which they do not relish.

Mr. Bryan further has announced that if he be elected a delegate to the national convention, he will oppose with all his heart and soul any attempt to nominate Senator Owen L. Underwood of Alabama. The commoner regards the Alabamian as a "wet" and a reactionary two things that are anathema to him. It so happens, however, that Mr. Underwood has quite a following in this State and may win the delegation. If the Underwood sentiment grows and the Bryan opposition to him continues, as every one expects it to, this fact will further militate against Bryan's chances of ever getting to the convention.

The Florida democrats have not yet assimilated the distinguished Nebraskan. Many of them still look upon him as an outsider and are reluctant to turn down their own kind to heap political honors on the "new comer" despite his notable past.

In standing for delegate at large, Mr. Bryan will have to be voted for all over the State. It will be the test of his political future. If elected he undoubtedly will forward with his senatorial plans. If defeated, it may mean such political end. Personally Mr. Bryan is extremely popular here in his new environment, but politically the democrats of the State say they do not believe he will play ball with them, but will be beholden only unto himself as a delegate at large.

Therefore that Mr. Bryan will have to sit in the New York convention on a proxy or not at all.

COMB SAGE TEA
INTO GRAY HAIR

Darkens Beautifully and Restores Its Natural Color and Lustre at Once.

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea, with sulphur and alcohol added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get the ready-to-use preparation improved by the addition of other ingredients. A large bottle at little cost at drug stores, known as "Wreth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," thus avoiding a lot of fuss.

While gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wreth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared. After another application or two your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant and you appear years younger.—adv.

DANISH STEAMER GOES TO BOTTOM

(By the Associated Press.)

NORFOLK, Va., Jan. 17.—"Danish" steamer Normanna has gone down in 22 fathoms of water 23 miles south-east of Prying Fan Shoals lightship.

This message from the coastguard cutter Modoc was received this afternoon at district coast guard headquarters here.

The fate of the Normanna's crew had not been determined definitely here, but it was believed by coast guard officials that they had been rescued by the steamer Charles G. Harwood, and not by the Henry R. Mallory as first reported. The Harwood reported Wednesday night that she was proceeding to the Normanna's assistance.

The Modoc reported that the bow of the Normanna was projecting above the surface, and was a menace to navigation. The hull will be blown up by the Modoc, coast guard officials said.

Could Hardly Drag

"I got very badly run-down. I had no appetite and I suffered all the time with the backache. Several of my friends told me to use Cardui, so I thought I would try it. It was wonderful how much I improved."

"This past summer (1922) I was in a run-down condition. My baby is fourteen months old and as I had nursed him myself this took all my strength. He is a big, fine baby, and the sign of his life has been a strain on me. I thought about Cardui and sent for a bottle—began to take it again. I could hardly drag my feet, one after the other. My... had never done back on me since the baby came, and my back ached like the toothache at times. Shortly after I began to take Cardui again, my... came on me and I have been better ever since. I have a fine appetite now."

"One afternoon I went about a mile down the road to my mother's. It took me two hours to walk home. The next day I began to take Cardui. I took three bottles and now I never feel better in my life. I want other women to know what a wonderful medicine it is for female troubles."

HOW SHENANDOAH SIZED UP JUST BEFORE SENSATIONAL ESCAPE

Steve Hannagan, NEA Service and the Bee staff writer, was atop the mooring mast of the Shenandoah at Lakehurst, N. J., only a few hours before the giant dirigible broke from its moorings with 22 men aboard. He is the only newspaper man to have gone to the top of the 172-foot mast. He was there to report on the state of preparedness attained for the proposed flight of the ship to the North Pole in June. His comments on the ship's condition were written before he knew that the Shenandoah had met with accident. Here is a story at first-hand of the manner in which the Shenandoah is manipulated.

BY STEVE HANNAGAN
LAKEHURST, N. J., Jan. 18.—Only a few hours before the Navy's Shenandoah was torn from its giant mooring mast here the writer visited the scene to conduct an investigation for NEA Service and The Bee into what was being done to make the "queen of the air" fit for the proposed North Pole flight in June.

Nervously the ship was swinging from its "American Eiffel Tower" mooring station 172 feet above ground as variable in its movements as a weather vane.

The water pipes on the ship were frozen—just as they might be this summer in the Arctic circle. Water is the doer's ballast designed to keep this much-heralded ship in balance.

As the winds lifted or tipped the flying flagship of the Navy, the commanding officer aboard shuffled his men from station to station as his man ballast—just as a juggler might toss rubber balls about.

During one of these eccentric movements of the ship it nearly broke from its moorings. The stern became light and rose until the tail was pointed practically to the zenith, with the nose strongly tugging to release itself—just as a giant fish might try to throw off the hook in its mouth.

There was a call to action. The writer was on the landing platform of the mooring mast—165 feet from the ground where he had a close-up view of operations. The crew was led to the emergency. It was feared the ship might break loose then. "Four men start aft!" shouted the commander.

They did. Feet began to pound along the small keelway. "Six men start aft!"

More pounding feet. "Eight men start aft!" rang out. It sounded like the charge of the light brigade echoing within the recesses of the ship.

"Hold it!" blared forth from the commander's cabin.

The shuffling halted. "Stand by for a stern line to make the ship fast below" was the command flashed to the ground crew which mobilized in a jiffy from a lolling "at rest" position in the warming rays of the sun.

After a 29-minute fight the ship was again on an even keel.

It was the worst scare the crew experienced until it finally was blown away on the wings of a 60-mile-an-hour gale.

Yet the same juggling act was staged with each puff of wind. "This is an unusual day for the ship," said Commander F. R. McCrary. "Don't think it's like this all the time."

"I'll bet I can ten miles up and down that ship today helping to keep it in balance," spoke 175 pounds of the human ballast as she went off watch.

"Yea, and most of it was like mountain climbing," chirped his companion.

Rubber-soled shoes make the men as sure-footed as cats as they climb about the ship which is 650 feet over all with a gas capacity of 2,118,000 cubic feet, total weight of 7,930 pounds and a cruising range of 4,990 miles.

After riding about 140 feet up in an elevator and then shinning a ladder I found myself on a landing platform 165 feet above ground. It is from this floor that the members of the crew of the Shenandoah with the same blank into the big ship.

There were prospects of a trial flight when I arrived at the field. Naturally enough I wanted to ride in a lighter-than-air craft a new experience.

But Commander McCrary flatly refused to carry me. Any additional weight might throw the ship off balance, he explained.

I watched the maneuvers—men going and coming as unconcerned as if they were on the ground; saw the effort with which the ship was controlled as it shifted in the breeze; heard the comments of the men. It was then I decided the Shenandoah would be one type of aircraft on which I would never care to ride.

And riding on the waves of the air holds no terror for me. A summer ago I rode thousands of miles aloft with Captain Edward V. Rickenbacker, America's Ace. We experienced forced landings—and a crash.

Yet if I were to ride the ZR-1 it would be with suicidal intent—and life is all sea and land to me.

"Would you be willing to fly to the North Pole in the ZR-1?" I asked Patsy Mozier, who was born in Belfast, Ireland, and reared on Kelly street in Akron, O.

He is only 18, has been in the Navy five years and is the lowest in rank on the dirigible. He is a second-class aviation mechanic.

"Sure," said Patsy. "I'll fly any place in it."

Just to show the nerve of Patsy, who is champion pupil of the station, his friends told him he was

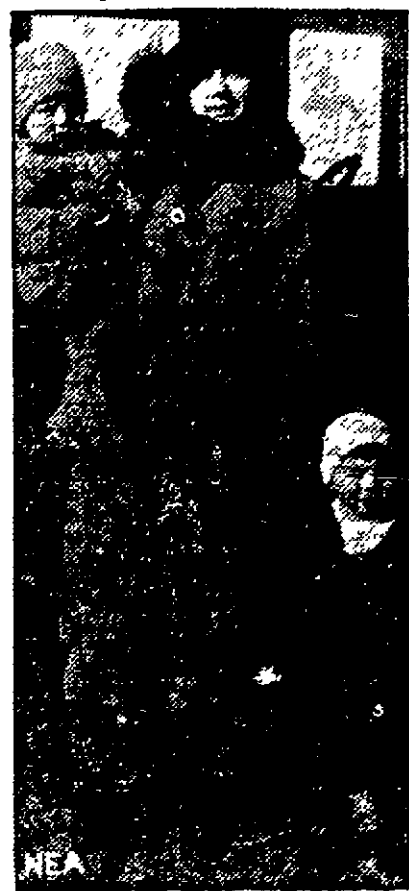

HOW SHENANDOAH IS MOORED TO MAST.

A line is thrown to the ground from the tip-top of the tower—another attached to the nose of the ship tossed over the side. Men on the ground splice the cables together. Slowly and cautiously the dirigible is reeled in like a large fish and made fast.

It is a precarious climb to the top of the tower for a land-lubber—a climb right out in the open. At the very peak is an arrangement that looks like a "flower pot." It is into this that the cable holding the nose of the dirigible is fitted.

The photo above shows the Shenandoah moored to the mast at Lakehurst, N. J., while on the right is a close-up of the nose of the giant dirigible attached to the mast.

While the crew of the Shenandoah braves dangers of the skies, their wives and children wait for them below. Photo shows Mrs. Thomas A. Knight, wife of a chief machinist's mate with their two children, Charles, 2 (in arms), and Thomas, Jr., 3 (on ground).

It was the worst scare the crew experienced until it finally was blown away on the wings of a 60-mile-an-hour gale.

Yet the same juggling act was staged with each puff of wind. "This is an unusual day for the ship," said Commander F. R. McCrary. "Don't think it's like this all the time."

"I'll bet I can ten miles up and down that ship today helping to keep it in balance," spoke 175 pounds of the human ballast as she went off watch.

Rubber-soled shoes make the men as sure-footed as cats as they climb about the ship which is 650 feet over all with a gas capacity of 2,118,000 cubic feet, total weight of 7,930 pounds and a cruising range of 4,990 miles.

After riding about 140 feet up in an elevator and then shinning a ladder I found myself on a landing platform 165 feet above ground. It is from this floor that the members of the crew of the Shenandoah with the same blank into the big ship.

There were prospects of a trial flight when I arrived at the field. Naturally enough I wanted to ride in a lighter-than-air craft a new experience.

But Commander McCrary flatly refused to carry me. Any additional weight might throw the ship off balance, he explained.

I watched the maneuvers—men going and coming as unconcerned as if they were on the ground; saw the effort with which the ship was controlled as it shifted in the breeze; heard the comments of the men. It was then I decided the Shenandoah would be one type of aircraft on which I would never care to ride.

And riding on the waves of the air holds no terror for me. A summer ago I rode thousands of miles aloft with Captain Edward V. Rickenbacker, America's Ace. We experienced forced landings—and a crash.

Yet if I were to ride the ZR-1 it would be with suicidal intent—and life is all sea and land to me.

"Would you be willing to fly to the North Pole in the ZR-1?" I asked Patsy Mozier, who was born in Belfast, Ireland, and reared on Kelly street in Akron, O.

He is only 18, has been in the Navy five years and is the lowest in rank on the dirigible. He is a second-class aviation mechanic.

"Sure," said Patsy. "I'll fly any place in it."

Just to show the nerve of Patsy, who is champion pupil of the station, his friends told him he was

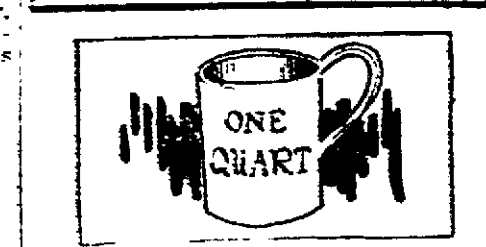

Captain Anton Heinen (above) of Germany, was the pilot aboard the Shenandoah when the ship broke loose. His coolness is credited with bringing the giant safely back to the hangar at Lakehurst, N. J., without loss of a life. Captain Heinen is in this country in an advisory capacity.

Steve Hannagan, NEA Service and The Bee Staff Writer, photographed atop the mooring mast of the Shenandoah just a few hours before the mammoth of the air tore loose from the mast. He is the only newspaper man to have gone to the top of the tower. He was there to get the "low down" on the flight condition of the navy's flying flagship.

At an automobile service station, oil was measured out in the cylindrical quart measure shown in the drawing.

A motorist asked for a pint of oil. There was no other measure at hand, nevertheless the service man was able to measure off exactly a pint, using the quart measure. How did he do it?

Satan Hears the Chorus

The choir was rehearsing a new setting of "Onward, Christian Soldiers" for the Sunday school anniversary.

At verse three the choirmaster said: "Now remember, only the robes and shoes to the gates of hell, and then you all come in—T-B-E's."

Opposition In Assembly To Merging Depts.

(By The Associated Press.)
RICHMOND, Va., Jan. 17.—Opposition to the recommendation of the Commission on Simplification and Economy to the General Assembly that the Department of Labor and Industrial Statistics be merged with the State Industrial Commission was announced tonight by William H. Coblen, chairman of the Executive Committee of the Virginia Federation of Labor.

The Commission suggested that the Department and Industrial Commission be merged and consolidated into a single department of three members, appointed by the governor, with approval of the Senate for terms of six years. The division of industrial rehabilitation also would be included in the proposed reorganization.

After reading the report of the Commission and making comparisons with the work of the departments referred to, we fail to see where there is any conflict, or duplication of work by them," Mr. Coblen said.

"We can not agree that a Commission formed to carry on the work of the various departments is the most efficient plan, and we are re-enforced in this connection by the action in the great industrial states of Ohio, Pennsylvania and Illinois, which have either adopted and abandoned, or refused to accept, the plan suggested by the commission in its report."

"These states have found that it is best to carry on the work relating to labor under a system virtually similar to that of Virginia. A Department of Labor, with an executive head known as the commissioner of Labor, gives the best results, according to the most reliable information we have obtained."

"We believe that if the scope of the Department is enlarged and sufficient appropriations provided greater results can be obtained and the interests of the state enhanced. It is our firm belief that no department of our state is entrusted with more important duties than that of the Department of Labor and Industrial Statistics, in the inspection of schools, factories, shops, mines and other places to see that dangerous conditions are eliminated," he said.

Mr. Coblen said the "protective arm" of the Department was thrown about the labor people of the state and that the federation "feels an injustice would be done the workers if it should be submerged into another department."

In referring to the commission and department, the simplification report included the Virginia Commission for adult blind and asserted they offered a good example of the growth of overlapping state agencies, through successive legislative enactment. It suggested that the Commission for the adult blind be consolidated with the division of industrial rehabilitation, this division to be under the supervision of a board composed of the chairman of the Industrial Commission, the state superintendent of public instruction and one person familiar with the educational and other needs of the blind.

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Chronic coughs and persistent colds lead to serious lung trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and kills the germ.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by the medical fraternity as the greatest healing agency for the treatment of chronic coughs and colds and other forms of throat and lung troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation. While the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and destroys the germs that lead to consumption.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, bronchitis, asthma, catarrh, bronchitis and other forms of throat and lung diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or the flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist, Creomulsion Co., Atlanta, Ga.—Adv.

Care of Household Pets

PARROTS I
Parrots are tethered to stands or confined in cages, indoor bird rooms or in outdoor aviaries. Parrot-stands should have wood perches, with the ends protected by metal caps against the birds' gnawing activities. The tether chain should be light and smooth. Of the various ways of keeping parrots, the stand method is least advisable, but it must be used for such powerful species as the macaws unless cages made of very strong iron rods are available.

Cages for parrots should be roomy, and square preferable to round, with plenty of perches of large diameter, standard food and water receptacles and removable bottom or tray of zinc.

The ideal arrangement for confining parrots is the outdoor aviary, which may be of modest size or as large and elaborate as the purse of the owner will justify. It should have at the north side a glass-fronted house for a cold weather retreat and part of the roof should be solidly covered to furnish shelter for nests and roosts.

A running supply of water should be provided, and the ground should be well grassed. If parrots are kept in cages in living rooms, the cages should be warmly covered at night and the rooms not allowed to cool off greatly. Moreover, do not throw the windows open to chilly morning air; let changes in temperature be small and gradual and exclude all drafts.

Logs and blocks of soft or partially decayed hard wood should be accessible to all confined parrots; the birds must exercise their bills, and they obtain from such pieces wood fiber, which seems to be essential to good digestion.

Male parrots as a rule respond better to teaching than females. Various individual systems of teaching the birds are recommended, but the essentials are repetition of the words, phrases or bars of music, one at a time, until learned. To achieve this end the parrot is sometimes placed in a room by itself and the person teaching the bird stations himself just beyond a door or elsewhere out of sight, or again the bird is taught in a darkened room.

No teasing should ever be permitted, for under its discomfort the bird is apt to become a confirmed screamer and lose all susceptibility to training.

Series of Interesting Bouts For Year Are Planned

PLANS NOT YET FINISHED FOR BOUT IN JUNE

(Associated Press Wire)
NEW YORK, Jan. 18.—Tex Rickard's announcement of 15 decision bouts in New York between Jack Dempsey and Tommy Gibbons, St. Louis challenger, the first week in June, which Jack Kearns hastened to accept, has been met with a "news" to him and the champion, was made by the boxing promoter in the belief, he said, that Kearns would agree to it when he reached New York in a few days.

Rickard's confidence that Kearns would have no objections to such an attractive contest in this city was based, he explained, on discussions they recently had on the subject.

"While no arrangement has yet been made with the champion's manager, Rickard said he did not think there should be any difficulties.

Rickard also planned to stage a bout in the middle of July, a class between Harry Wills and Luis Angel Firpo, the winner to meet Dempsey in September, should the champion dispose of Gibbons in June.

Kearns, on the other hand, says he expects Dempsey to meet Firpo in July in a return match and announced for the information of all concerned that New York was not the only place that hankered not only for the Dempsey-Firpo match but for Dempsey-Wills and Dempsey-Gibbons fights as well.

Europe's Greatest Boxers End Their Reign Together

CHICAGO, Jan. 18.—It is interesting to note that the three greatest fighters produced in Europe in the last ten years all arrived at the end of their journey about the same time. We refer to Georges Carpentier and Eugene Criqui of France and Jimmy Wilde of England.

Carpentier is practically through. Dempsey and Siki gave him two beatings from which he will never fully recover. Carpentier is the best light heavyweight produced on the other side in years. And neither France nor England has anyone to offer as his understudy.

Criqui is an important champion from an American. Criqui knocked out Johnny Kibane and was featherweight champion of the world for about a month. Then along came Jimmy Dundee and took it away from him.

Dundee gave Criqui a whipping and he was unable to fight when he returned home. Now Criqui is featherweight champion of France. Criqui will never do any more important fighting.

Jimmy Wilde is through. The kno-kout Pete Herman handed him more than a year ago started him backward, and Pancho Villa finished him in a bout held in New York last summer.

Carpentier, Criqui and Wilde. It will be a long time before Europe develops three more fighters as good as these boys, and it is unlikely that she will ever develop three at the same time.

(By the Associated Press)
NEW YORK, Jan. 18.—Two special invitation events in which national stars will be asked to participate have been added to the program for the municipal track and field games to be held at Madison Square on January 31.

The first event will be of 800 meters, with Jole Ray and Ray Watson asked to compete. The second will compose a series of sprints at 40, 50 and 60 yards in which Loren Murchison, holder of all national sprint championships will meet Jackson Scholz, Harold Lever, Bob McAllister and others.

NEW YORK, Jan. 18.—There is no important change in the football rules for 1924.

E. K. Hall, chairman of the football rules committee has just made a report for the committee on the changes of 1924 in which he states that looking to the experience of that season has tended to alter the committee's opinion that no fundamental rule changes seem to be required.

The report finds that football has become an open, running game, free for unnecessary hazards, saving all that was best in the old game and eliminating the features that were

It is rumored that Mike McGuire is getting up a fund to defray the expenses of Battling Siki back to France.

The longer Siki stays in this country the less respect ring fans will have for McGuire as a "world's champion."

Siki won the light-heavyweight title by knocking out Georges Carpentier in a bout that was supposed to be "in the bag" for the Frenchman before it started.

Then Siki went over to Dublin and fought McGuire for the title. It was a horrible fight and at the end the verdict and title were awarded to McGuire.

Subsequently Siki came to this country and took on Kid Norfolk who punished him silly. In another fight in Philadelphia against a third-rate Siki was again disgraced as a fighter.

No wonder McGuire wants him to go back home.

JACK DEMPSEY LIVING GREAT LIFE IN FLORIDA

By ROBERT T. SMALL
(Copyright, 1923, by The Bee)

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Jan. 18.—Jack Dempsey, champion pugilist of the world, is down here leading the life of Riley. Jack is the social hit of the season. No pink tea is complete without him. Last night he entertained a party at the opening dinner of the exclusive Miami Beach Casino. Today, he was a judge at the Greyhound Races of the exclusive Miami Kennels Club.

The society columns of the Miami papers fairly hum with the doings of the great mauler.

And does Jack like all this social attention? You should see the perpetual grin which adorns the face which would be classed as "not for the fainted." Jack takes to society like a duck to water. He also takes to the water every day at the beach. He has to take it, to get away from the throngs of admirers who gather about him without any sort of invitation. The California bathing beauties can be no lovelier than the Miami mermaids who cluster about Jack every time a motion picture camera sticks its head up over the horizon.

Dempsey has been busy with Jack since he has been down here, too, but he stoutly denies he has any intention at this time of taking into himself a second wife. Jack hasn't forgotten all the troubles of his first venture and he is not looking for another trouble just now outside the squared circle.

The champion's greatest delight seems to be play with the kiddies on the beach. He romps with them by the hour, thereby winning many costly hearts by showing them that a prize fighter is not always as bad as they paint him. If Wm. Harrison Dempsey, as some of the society writers refer to him, had been sent to Florida on a mission of propaganda for the prize ring, he could not have done a better job than he has by merely following his natural bent.

It is usually the fate of a champion to be lionized in certain circles and certain strata of society, but Jack Dempsey is experiencing something entirely new. And he is said to his credit, he is handling the "social stuff" like a thorough gentleman.

This is his first trip to this winter playground of the rich and the socially bored but he says it will not be his last. Jack's home is in Southern California but he says he does not feel he is being faithful to Los Angeles in coming to Florida.

Dempsey has his secretary with him. He insists it is not a social secretary, but nevertheless the secretary's big job at the moment is keeping the list of the champion's completely filled engagement list. Tuesday the champion took his first flight in a flying boat. The day was a squally one with intermittent sunshine and rain. The wind at times blew nearly forty miles an hour but the trip was made in safety and the champion did not complain of air sickness despite the choppyness of the atmosphere.

Sunday the champion is going out of his class to enter a bout at the Roman pools on the beach. He is going to try to land a human tarpon. The swimmer will have a line attached to his head by a harness-looking something like a football helmet and Dempsey has undertaken to land him in thirty minutes.

Dempsey is looking a bit soft but it is keep as his social engagements permit. He is not losing touch with doings in the pugilistic world and says that he believes some day he will have to defend his title against Young Stribling, the Georgia school boy who is fighting down this way about every ten days. Dempsey says, however, that he will draw the line at fighting Pa Stribling.

It seems that a bout in West Palm Beach this week the referee disqualifies Young Stribling for misbehaving. Thereupon Pa Stribling stepped into the ring and took a roundhouse wallop at the unsuspecting official. Ma Stribling remained calm and collected. Jack says he can't fight the whole Stribling family, but he likes the style and believes he has a future in the ring if he is not rushed too fast and overworked.

Here's a closing social note. Dempsey has his own evening clothes with him, but he hires his bathing suits. He's just that democratic.

Big Game Hunting Ideal Way to Keep Physically Fit—Ackerman

By MORRIS ACKERMAN.
Hunting, big game especially, is the greatest physical conditioner in the world. It is the majority of us the most pleasant.

Pick up a newspaper most any day and you read that Jack Dempsey is either on a big game hunt, has just returned from one or is again on his way. You might say that of all persons, Dempsey needs this kind of exercise. He doesn't need it, he needs it for the outdoors. Climbing over New Mexico's parched rocks, the snow-capped peaks of California and plowing through New Brunswick's swamps in search of moose, deer, bobcat and other big game, Jack Dempsey, at a winter, may use for it.

If you like that sort of sport, these kind of trips are not work, they are play, and while you play the grind is taking everything bad out of you and replacing it with the strength and the power of resistance of a grizzly bear. At the same time, the grizzly bear is not a grizzly bear on the other day when Walter Camp was giving a talk and demonstration of his famous "daily dozen." Along with a number of other devotees of various lines of sport I was thus honored. Camp turned to me and said: "You need never worry about the fisherman and hunter. His sport calls for the outdoors and all the advantages it holds. He can eat anything and everything but before him. Unfortunately we can't all be fishermen and hunters—some of us have to work for a living."

Mr. Camp is right about the fisherman and hunter in his eating. He is right about the advantages to be derived from the outdoors. He is wrong when he says, "we can't all be fishermen and hunters," because we all can fish and hunt more or less. The more we do the better off we are.

A hunting trip in the Rocky mountains will take more out of a man than any job on earth. By the time you get back you will be a different man. That kind of hunting calls for climbing up, up from daylight until the setting sun. One day will tell your physical condition. You'll cut your smoking down the first day, cut it out the second, eat a hearty breakfast the first day, a light breakfast the second and the third day you'll eat very little until you reach your camp at night.

A five or six weeks' trip will put any well man under 50 in a condition of physical fitness he never knew before. The greatest devotees of big game hunting, as a class, are medical men. Why? My experience has taught me that the game of physicians who hunt big game, against the entire field, is about one in six.

Try this calculation some time and see for yourself. Your doctor is an educated man. He has spent about 20 years in mental training. After that he learns a lot more about man, his physical weaknesses, advantages of fresh air, sunlight, change of food, change of scenery and, above all, the value of an abrupt change in living conditions. Are the examples set by Dempsey and your doctor and the words of wisdom of Walter Camp worth anything to you?

TIGERS TO PLAY IN RICHMOND TODAY

Hampden-Sydney arrives in Richmond today for its annual game in the capital city. Although the same squad which played the season's opening accompanies Coach Bernier, the Tiger team is not in superb condition, three of the number having recovered ankle injuries the latter part of last week, and these are slow improving.

The Garnet and Gray, as usual has a number of Richmond boys on the team, and it is very probable that four of the five in the game tonight will be Richmond boys. As usual, the Tiger team has made names for themselves in the capital city, either in high school or out. In fact, the quartet of Richmonders are practically new at the game, yet they have played three games thus far, and have not lost a contest since.

Hampden-Sydney is undertaking a strenuous job, playing three games in Richmond, and returning to the home court for a fracas with Wake Forest. The Tiger team is in addition to a team composed of non-letter men, Coach Bernier has exerted himself to get a number of freshmen to play in his line, and while they may not be as good as the letter men, they may be as good as the letter men on the field. They may be as good as the letter men on the field. They may be as good as the letter men on the field.

JOE SHIMKUS WON WRESTLING BOUT HERE LAST NIGHT

Joe Shimkus won two out of three falls last night in his bout with N. Kassan, the mighty Turk. The Municipal Hall was crowded for the wrestling match which was promoted by L. C. Moody, and it was the consensus of opinion that it was the best contest that has ever been staged here.

Shimkus lost the first fall when the Turk secured a toe hold on him. Shimkus said later that he felt as though he could have broken the hold, but the effort would have weakened him for the rest of the match.

Kassan lost the second fall on a split and the last and decisive fall on a scissors.

WILSON AND GREB AGAIN MEET IN A WORLD TITLE BOUT

(By the Associated Press)
NEW YORK, Jan. 17.—Harry Greb of Pittsburgh, will defend his world's middleweight title tomorrow night in a 15 round return match with Johnny Wilson, of Boston, who lost the title to Greb last summer at the Polo Grounds.

Greb has been installed a slight favorite among ring followers but Wilson's chances of regaining the crown have been brightened as a result of improved form he has displayed recently.

Greb, who does most of his fighting in the light heavyweight class, declared today he would have no trouble making the 150 pounds limit at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon when the fighters weigh in.

Only One Notre Dame Football Star Played Through a Full Game

Strategy was the keynote of Notre Dame's success during the past season.

The team which won nine out of ten games succeeded in covering up its weak spot throughout the entire season. At no time was the secret revealed.

With apparently a superfluity of first-class material the Fighting Irish were lamentably weak at one position, there being but one player capable of handling the position. That player was a super-player, however, and by using him judiciously Rockne succeeded in keeping him covered up during the entire season.

Game after game came from 25 to 25 men in the Irish lineup. During the entire season there was but one man who played a full game and that man played two full games, Nebraska and St. Louis.

The player who plugged the gap and who had the unusual distinction of playing two full games for the Irish was Harry Stuhldreher, quarterback extraordinary. Stuhldreher knows more football than any man around the Irish institution with the exception of Rockne.

his quarterback. He said "The reason is over now so I don't care who knows that Stuhly was our only quarterback. If he had been hurt it would certainly have wrecked us. The only resource that I had left was to turn Elmer Leden into a quarter and that would have handicapped us at the fullback job. Lenden was a quarterback in high school. In 1924 we are going to have four quarterbacks instead of one and then watch us travel."

FOR THE GAME'S SAKE

BY LAWRENCE PERRY

(Copyright, 1924, by The Bee)
NEW YORK, Jan. 18.—Advertising boys well, American track followers who know little about the sport outside the United States have always regarded Oxford as the great center of inter-collegiate track supremacy in England. This opinion is of course due to the splendid teams that Oxford has sent to the Penn relays, to the fact that Lordians have figured chiefly in overseas track news, principally through the efforts of that gallant athlete and splendid sportsman, Bevil G. D. Rudd, and finally to the fact that Oxford is able to draw up on American rhodes scholars.

Consequently it would appear that the announcement from the university of Pennsylvania that Cambridge University is to send a team to the Penn relays has not properly been appreciated. As a matter of fact, the advent of the Cantabrigians will be significant because in the past year or two athletes of this university have been leaders in England.

The light blue of Cambridge prevailed over the dark blue of Oxford in the annual meet last year and Cambridge also furnished nearly all of England's point winners in the dual international meet between Oxford, Cambridge and Harvard-Yale. It will be thus seen, that apart from the admirable features associated with this first visit to Franklin Field of a purely Cantab team—upon one occasion a joint Oxford-Cambridge team, came to the relays, there will be as well a definite sporting significance.

The university council of athletics at Pennsylvania has done a splendid thing in decreeing that henceforth no member of the coaching staff shall have any connection with professional football. Against professional football as a game, no one logically can find objection. But when the promoters capitalize the former, college reputations of the players, placing the alma maters of the various men opposite their names in the line up and emphasizing the collegiate angle in publicity, the various educational institutions involved, have, it would seem, a right to object.

College football is popular because of the purity of its spirit, because the players are doing something strenuous and dangerous through an idea of loyal devotion to their institution. It cannot be purchased; cannot be tainted—except when it is exploited on the professional field.

Harold Reese, the Princeton freshman hockey player who lost his life by being struck on the head with a stick in the course of a game against the Royal Canadian Bank Team, was a St. Paul's school product, a splendid hockey player, a lovable and thoroughly promising boy. The accident was wholly unnecessary, the player being struck accidentally by a man who had fallen to the ice and was flailing his stick about in an effort to bring himself to his feet.

No sport is worth a life. It could have been prevented—or to put it a more constructive way, similar accidents can and should be prevented in the future by providing players with protective hats such as are worn by lacrosse and polo players.

THE SEA—IT EITHER MAKES OR BREAKS

By JOSEPHINE VAN DE GRIFT
NEA Service Staff Writer

PERTH AMBOY, N. J., Jan. 18.—

The spell of the sea—it wove itself into the hearts of a boy and girl and set them looking out over the horizon with nameless longings. It took possession of the lives of a man and a woman and called them away from hearth and kindred. It sent them adventuring into strange ports to bargain with strange men. It broke them, it hurt them, it tossed them, but still it calls them. They the slaves, the master until the last sail shall have been hauled in.

And that's doubtless why the cabin of the "Jennie Crocker" looks so much like home. It's the only home that Captain Nelson Crocker and Captain Jennie Crocker know.

Once they tried fixing up a little home in Cliffside, Mass. It was a seven-room house and there was a place to raise chickens and a little bed for paupers. They tried it six weeks and gave up.

Back to the Sea.

The sea called them back. A forest sign appeared on the seven-room house.

Now there are carpets on the floor of the cabin of the "Jennie Crocker" and draperies at the doors. A phonograph is in the corner and on the table, screwed to the floor to keep it from sliding, is a grass basket with a bit of embroidery.

For Captain Nelson Crocker and Captain Jennie Crocker have given up. They're not going to leave the sea any more.

That's why Captain Jennie Crocker took out the papers the other day that made her the only woman captain on the seven seas.

Doubtless she could have taken them out most any time during the 20 years she was sailing as help mate and chief mate with Captain Nelson Crocker, her husband.

For once when they were coming back from a little 12,000-mile expedition down to Africa there were 20 days when Captain Nelson Crocker was delirious with fever. And during all the time Jennie Crocker navigated the ship, gave the courses, took the sightings and doctored her husband at night time she relieved the life's man who was fanning him.

And once when they were coming back from Portugal a mile from the Azores she did them about helplessly for 52 hours. Jennie Crocker stayed down in the cabin that time, but it was because her husband boarded her up and made her stay there.

Yes, Jennie Crocker could have taken out her papers most any time and when she finally did take the examination the other day, an examination lasting a day and three quarters, grizzled veterans from the customs house came over and begged to shake her by the hand.

Her First Command.

Now Captain Jennie Crocker is getting ready to command her first expedition. It's a little jaunt down and around to St. Joe, Fla., after lumber Nelson Crocker's going along as chief mate.

But whether either of them goes along as captain or as chief mate, neither of them is going to leave the sea any more.

"Maybe the sea has brought unhappiness to some of us, it has brought only happiness," says Captain Jennie. "Nelson and I loved it when we were little children five years old. We've loved it the 20 years we've been sailing together."

"The sea lifts you above petty things and it makes you believe in God. It teaches you team work and sacrifice and dependence on one another. These are the things that make good sailors and these are the things that make happy marriages."

made. There was no discussion on the question which precipitated the discussion in Danville as soon as the Reg. ster on Tuesday notified the people of this community of the council's action on Monday afternoon.

Councilman Conway moved that the city attorney be instructed to write into the charter an amendment making its effectiveness dependent upon the wishes of the people in a referendum.

Congressman Gardner pointed out the necessity of first annulling what the council had done on Monday and this was immediately done. Mr. Conway's amendment then prevailed, the vote being unanimous.

Judge Price Withers, also present at the meeting, told the council that a referendum before the charter is adopted would have no legal status.

MORNING STOCK LETTER

Thomson & McKinnon

NEW YORK, Jan. 18.—The Mexican oil situation looks serious. According to latest reports, operations in the light oil fields are virtually at a standstill. Very little oil is coming out. This means the demand for oil must be supplied from out own fields and reserves. Bearish on Mexico—common on the United States.

France advances the rediscount rate to check speculation and here our reserves are up to the unnecessary height of 50.1 per cent. We have the gold here. It is going to have its effect on values and it is beyond the power of the reserve banks to stop it. They can stop it for a while like a temporary dam to hold back the water but it is going through. It will be better if it is gradually. The discount rate should be lowered now. If a low reserve is bearish on securities, a high reserve is bullish. If a small supply of gold is bearish a big supply is bullish and there is no denying it. It is going to have its effect.

Live In Same
House But Not
In Same Town

(By Chicago Tribune Service.)
CHICAGO, Jan. 18.—Although they reside in the same house, Mr. and Mrs. William F. Jones do not live in the same town. Their home is located on the imaginary line dividing the towns of Maywood and Bellwood. Curiously enough the bedroom is directly over the line, so that half the bed is in Bellwood and the other half in Maywood.
Mr. Jones, as the official head of the family sleeps on the Maywood side of the bed and Mrs. Jones on the Bellwood side. Thus the family, which pays taxes in both villages, has a vote in each.
For a long time the Jones family has known it resided in the United States, the state of Illinois and the county of Cook, but it required the services of a surveyor and a search through the records to determine that the family resided in one house and two towns.

Charlotte to Go
Municipal Hall

(Associated Press Leased Wire.)
CHARLOTTE, N. C., Jan. 18.—Decision has practically been made by the city commissioners of Charlotte to proceed with the building of a municipal building without looking for the county to come in on the project. First plans, made more than a year ago, were for the city and county to build a joint municipal building. The plan was abandoned when the county officials made no decision on the matter. About a year ago the city hall was sold for $305,000 and a new building is necessary. Plans have been submitted and are being considered for the structure.

(Associated Press Leased Wire.)
CHARLOTTE, N. C., Jan. 18.—Plans are under way here by members of the faith to build a Greek Orthodox Church in Charlotte. A lot has been offered to the local colony and a drive has been started among members of the faith for funds for the building.

N. C. Merchants to Hold Convention

(Associated Press Leased Wire.)
STATESVILLE, N. C., Jan. 18.—Wednesday, February 20, it has been announced here by J. Paul Leonard, executive secretary, has been agreed upon as the date for the mid-winter session of the North Carolina Merchants' Association. The meeting will be held at Raleigh.

A special effort, it is said, will be made to have present at the meeting hundreds of the newly obtained members of the association secured during the recent campaign. All officers of local associations also are urged to be present.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON.

(Associated Press Leased Wire.)
NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 18.—A rise of 17 to 24 points was seen in the first half hour of trading in cotton today, the market being supported by good cables, private advices from English spot firms that they were meeting a better inquiry for actual cotton from mills on the continent and the cold weather over the belt. March rose to 33.23 and October to 27.67.

(By the Associated Press.)

Last Sunday one store was haled to court for remaining open.

Not a peep has been heard from the other side since the arrival of our Mr. Dawes.

NEW YORK STOCKS.

(Associated Press Leased Wire.)
NEW YORK, Jan. 18.—Stock prices tended upward again at the opening of today's stock market although heaviness again cropped out in the Pan-American Petroleum shares. Early buying orders were well distributed among the rails, steels and a select assortment of specialties.
Some sharp gains were recorded among the specialties. U. S. Cast Iron Pipe advanced 3 points and National Lead, May Department Stores, Utah Securities, Central Leather pfd., Davison Chemical and Pittsburgh and West Virginia moving up 1 to 1-1/2. Selling again broke out however, among the Standard industrials, the general list showing a somewhat reactionary tendency before the end of the first hour. American Can, Baldwin and Corn Products each dropped a point and Studebaker yielded fractionally. Foreign exchanges opened heavily, demand sterling dropping more than a cent to $4.33 and French francs dropping about 12 points to 4.51-1/2 cents.
